

“Just hearing the word Euthanasia brings on gasps from most people, but it shouldn’t.” Those words written in a letter to Roland from his friend George, sends him on a mission to change the laws in this country. This brings Roland in conflict with both Religion and Politics; two areas that he, like most people, try to avoid. A task that finds Roland in conflict with centuries old ideologies, modern science and medicine, and with George’s past; especially with George’s daughter Elizabeth!
